Learn More About Naturopathic Medicine

If you have a chronic health condition or suddenly get sick, your first response is usually to call your medical doctor. However, there is another way to gain treatment without resorting to prescription medication that often has unpleasant and unwelcome side effects that can harm your body. Naturopathic medicine is a holistic way to treat a variety of health issues. By combining some modern medical practices with complementary techniques like acupuncture and herbal medicine, naturopathic doctors treat the individual as a whole, rather than focusing on symptoms alone.

I really appreciate the time that was taken to ensure that I am healthy. I did not feel like I needed to go to the doctor, however my wife convinced me to go. After getting my test results back there were a few areas of concern. Dr Beth suggested a few things to try and I do feel better. I just had my second test done and waiting for the results to see the difference it has made. Thanks Doc! - Brandon H
